The Episcopal Diocese of Western Kansas

Adopted for use by The Episcopal Diocese of Western Kansas.

Introduction: Our Theological Commitment

From the very beginning of Sacred Scripture we are taught that God, the Maker of the Universe, created human beings in His image[1]. Because all human life is created in the image of God it stands to reason that all human life should be respected, protected, and loved. Humanity, as extensions of God's Being, are worthy of our care and reverence. Our Lord Jesus speaks of this care and reverence without qualification in the Gospels[2]. It is clear to us that, as Christians, we are to care for God's creation regardless of whether they acknowledge His Lordship or not.

Within this general care of humanity our Lord emphasizes the care that should be given to children. The story of the disciples being rebuked by Christ because they are shooing away the children should be foremost in our minds when dealing with the subject of the prevention of child/youth abuse. "But Jesus said, "Let the little children come to Me, and do not forbid them; for of such is the kingdom of heaven[3]."" Our job is to bring people to the Savior of the World but abuse accomplishes the opposite effect, that of pushing them away from Him. The abuse of children causes them to be pulled away and in His rebuke of His disciples we can hear our Lord's rebuke to those who would abuse these precious gifts.

The youth ministries of this church is devoted to fulfilling the mission given to us by Christ Himself, "All authority has been given to Me in heaven and on earth. Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age[4]." To accomplish this mission, we must do what is within our power to keep the children and youth that God has entrusted us with safe so that the Kingdom of God can be built up.

God's creation of humanity in His image, His command for us to love our neighbors, His rebuke of the disciples for hindering children, and His commission for us to spread the Gospel to all corners of the globe gives us more than enough reason to state that the protection of our children and youth is a Christian duty and to that duty the youth ministries of this church is dedicated.

Code of Conduct

Introduction

Relationships among people are at the foundation of Christian ministry and as such are central to the life of the church. Defining healthy and safe relationship through policies and codes of conduct are not meant in any way to undermine the strength and importance of personal interaction in our ministries. Rather, it is to assist in more clearly defining behaviors and practices that allow the church to more fully demonstrate its love and compassion for children and youth in sincere and genuine relationships.

Relationships in ministry should, ideally, always be experienced as caring and without intention to do harm or allow harm to occur. This Code of Conduct has been adopted by The Diocese of Western Kansas to help the church create safe environments for children and youth and for those who minister to them. All Church Personnel are asked to carefully read and consider each statement in the Code and within the Abuse Prevention Policies for Children and Youth.

Appendix A: Guidelines for Appropriate Affection

The Diocese of Western Kansas is committed to creating and promoting a positive, nurturing environment for our children's and youth ministries to protect our children and youth from abuse and our Church Personnel from misunderstandings. When creating safe boundaries for children and youth, it is important to establish what types of affection are appropriate and inappropriate; otherwise that decision is left to each individual. Stating which behaviors are appropriate and inappropriate allows church Personnel to comfortably show positive affection in ministry, and yet identify individuals who are not maintaining safe boundaries with children or youth. These guidelines are based, in large part, on avoiding behaviors known to be used by child molesters to groom children or youth and their parents for future abuse. The following guidelines are to be carefully followed by all Church Personnel working around or with children or youth.

1) Love and affection are part of church life and ministry. There are many ways to demonstrate affection while maintaining positive and safe boundaries with children and youth.

Some positive and appropriate forms of affection are listed below:

- v Brief hugs.
- v Pats on the shoulder and back.
- v Handshakes.
- v "High-fives" and hand slapping.
- v "Fist bumps".
- v Verbal praise.
- v Touching hands, faces, shoulders and arms of children or youth.
- v Arms around shoulders.
- v Holding hands while walking with small children.
- v Sitting beside small children.
- v Kneeling or bending down for hugs with small children.
- v Holding hands during prayer.

v Pats on the head when culturally appropriate.

2) The following forms of affection are considered inappropriate with children and youth in a ministry setting because many of them are the behaviors that child molesters use to groom children or youth and their parents for later molestation or can be, in and of themselves, sexual abuse.

v Inappropriate or lengthy embraces.

v Kisses on the mouth.

v Holding children over three years old on the lap.

v Touching bottoms, chests or genital areas other than for appropriate diapering or toileting of infants or toddlers.

v Showing affection in isolated areas such as bedrooms, closets, staff only areas or other private rooms.

v Occupying a bed with a child or youth.

v Wrestling with children or youth.

v Any form of unwanted affection.

v Comments or compliments (spoken, written, or electronic) that relate to physique or body development. Examples would be, "You sure are developing," or "You look really hot in those jeans."

v Snapping bras or giving wedgies or similar touch of underwear whether or not it is covered by other clothing.
